

The Review of Economic Studies

Rules

1. The object of the Review is to supplement the facilities for the publication of new work on theoretical and applied economics, particularly by young writers.
2. The policy and management of the Review are entirely independent of any institution or school of thought.
3. The management of the Review is in the hands of an Editorial Committee and a Consultative Board.
4. The Editorial Committee is responsible for all executive work, apart from the management of subscriptions, but including publication. At least one member shall be resident in the USA.
5. The Editorial Board is primarily a consultative body but is ultimately responsible for policy decisions. Any member who becomes a Reader or Professor in a British University must resign his membership.
6. Joint meetings of the Committee and Board shall be held at least twice, yearly, to review the financial position and to take decisions on editorial and business policy.
7. In the event of the cessation of the publication or winding up of the organisation neither the members of the committee nor the board shall have any claim whatever in the assets of the organisation, which will be offered by the Board to educational institutions.
